

Hanesbrands Theatre at the Milton Rhodes Center for the Arts Winston-Salem, North Carolina

The Milton Rhodes Center for the Arts is a fusion of two existing buildings: the historic Sawtooth Building which was converted into a community arts school in the 1970s and the adjoining AC Delco building, a former auto-repair garage, now transformed into the Hanesbrands Theatre. The intimate studio theatre provides flexible seating and staging for drama, dance, music and film presentations.
